ATTORNEY

Christopher Berry is a litigator at Smith Haughey, devoting the entirety of his practice to all aspects of litigation. He has extensive trial experience in a wide variety of civil and criminal cases in both federal and state courts throughout the state of Michigan.

Chris regularly represents businesses, individuals, insurers, and insureds in pursuing and defending claims in the areas of commercial, construction, insurance, personal injury, employment, and probate litigation. His past client roster includes a vast array of national, regional and local businesses, large and small, as well as many doctors, hospitals, and other health care providers. Additionally, Chris has obtained favorable verdicts and settlements on behalf of individuals and families who have suffered catastrophic physical injury, wrongful death, and financial harm.

Chris is passionate about his clients and protecting their interests. Whatever the nature of the litigation, Chris considers it a privilege to be an advocate and welcomes the opportunity to present his client's case to the judge or jury.
